

a seminar series:

Relations between scientists with journals and editors

BDR SEMINAR via Zoom

Charles Yokoyama

International Research Center for Neurointelligence
University of Tokyo Institutes for Advanced Studies

Tuesday, August 24, 2021

16:00-17:00

Meeting URL will be announced on the event day by e-mail.

※This seminar is open only to BDR members.

Scientific Manuscript Editing and Journal Publication Support Systems

Summary

Manuscript writing for journal review and publication is a skillset that scientists must learn to navigate for successful research outcomes. Especially, preparation of manuscripts for highly-selective journals is a unique challenge. First, I will talk about my perspective on relations between scientists with journals and editors as a former Senior Editor at Cell Press. Then, I will discuss my experiences working with authors (mainly PIs) as an in-house manuscript editor, publication consultant, and writing instructor in RIKEN and the University of Tokyo. Let's go deep into all of these topics.

RIKEN Center for Biosystems Dynamics Research (BDR)

Host: Mitsuru Morimoto

Lung Development and Regeneration, BDR
mitsuru.morimoto@riken.jp

Tel: 078-306-3199 (ext: 95-3199)